Linen of Pody is the best-so I've heard as far as Havnor. And I can tell the quality of what you're spinning. A beautiful thread it is." Crow watched his companion with amusement and some disdain; he himself could bargain for a book very shrewdly, but nattering with common women about buttons and thread was beneath him. "Let me just open this up," Tern was saying as he spread his pack out on the cobbles, and the women and the dirty, timid children drew closer to see the wonders he would show them. "Woven cloth we're looking for, and the undyed thread, and other things too-buttons we're short of. If you had any of horn or bone, maybe? I'd trade one of these little velvet caps here for three or four buttons. Or one of these rolls of ribbon; look at the color of it. Beautiful with your hair, mistress! Or paper, or books. Our masters in Orrimy are seeking such things, if you had any put away, maybe." He nodded. "Left myself halfway," he said. He looked up; the Patterner was coming towards them, Diamond. It tickled him a little, though, to see his boy teaching tricks to the witch-child. When he had done what he could to warn the city, and seen all the gate-guards and port-guards. When she said nothing, and some time had passed, he said, "In the shadow of these trees is no harm. Only truth." Its owner was one of four men who called themselves Master of Iria. The other three called him after you? They were not far inside the Grove, and still beside the stream, when Irian stopped, turned aside, out in a high, harsh voice. "Come up on to the hill, Thorion," she said. tongue? To find her on Hemlock's side was a blow. He strode from the house, turned, and set a fire spell on it so that it burst into flames, thatch and walls and every window spouting fire. Women ran out of it screaming. They had been hiding no doubt in the back room; he paid them no attention. "Hound," he thought. He spoke the summoning, using Hound's true name, and the old man came to him as he was bound to do. He was sullen, though, and said, "I was in the tavern, down the way there, you could have said my use-name and I'd have come." "What is?" she went about the house. He held the wizard's letter and reread the message and the two runes. At last she moved, and kissed his cheek, and whispered, "I missed you, I missed you, I missed you..gleamed below, on either side opened passageways in buildings; beneath a tree with blue leaves - unused, and looms to be seen by the windows of some of the houses. South of Andanden lies a land where the ashes fell a hundred feet deep when last the volcano spoke. Rivers and streams cut their way seaward through that high plain, winding and pooling, spreading and wandering, making a marsh of it, a big, desolate, waterland with a far horizon, few trees, not many people. The ashy soil grows a rich, bright grass, and the people there keep cattle, fattening beef for the populous southern coast, letting the animals stray for miles across the plain, the rivers serving as fences.. All the rumors of Roke had said that it was spell-defended and charm-hidden, invisible to ordinary eyes. If there were any spells woven about that hill or the bay he now saw opening before it, they were gossamer to him, transparent. Nothing blurred his eyes or challenged his will as he flew over the bay, over the little town and a half-finished building on the slope above it, to the top of the high green hill. There, striking down dragons claws and beating rust-red wings, he lighted.. impurities fester and run free from their sores. And then when they're burned clean at last they. human voice. Those words he said so often that they made a tune in. There Medra walked with Elehal, on the white pavement, before there were any walls built round it.. The roasting pit took up the center of a huge domed chamber. Hurrying, sticklike figures black against the blaze shoveled and reshoveled ore onto logs kept in a roaring blaze by great bellows, while others brought fresh logs and worked the bellows sleeves. From the apex of the dome a spiral of chambers rose up into the tower through smoke and fumes. In those chambers, Licky had told him, the vapor of the quicksilver was trapped and condensed, reheated and recondensed, till in the topmost vault the pure metal ran down into a stone trough or bowl-only a drop or two a day, he said, from the low-grade ores they were roasting now.
